TESTIMONIAL – NORWELL HOUSING AUTHORITY

Over time, water pipes throughout our state-aided housing facility developed pinhole leaks to the point where total system replacement was recommended. Yet these buildings house many residents who are elderly and handicapped, so that process would have been extremely expensive, time consuming and disruptive.

We were intrigued that CuraFlo's epoxy lining process could be implemented cost effectively in only a few weeks without having to excavate walls and fixtures – or displace residents. We brought them in to implement this process in one building as a test case, and I am tremendously pleased with the results.

In checking references beforehand, one customer remarked that CuraFlo was among the best contractors he had ever worked with. Based on their performance, they certainly lived up to that recommendation. CuraFlo's personnel worked hard, they were responsive to our needs and concerns, and the process went like clockwork. They really know their stuff, and they provided us with great confidence in their abilities. I look forward to working with them on future projects.
